

Cites oil-depletion, farm-labor, housing laws

Brown claims major state breakthroughs

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown says he's satisfied with his first half-year in office—"a very significant and productive six months."

The Democratic governor was asked to assess accomplishments of state government, including the Legislature, at a news conference Friday.

"There have been some major breakthroughs," he said. "The oil depletion allowance has been abolished. The home office exemption has been put in a position where I think it's very close to passage."

He also noted the housing bill, which he had just signed to pump up to $950 million into California's depressed housing industry and make it easier for the poor to buy or remodel houses.

"Certainly I'm satisfied. I'm satisfied and I look forward to a lot of work in the months ahead," he said, adding:

"I don't like to sit around and pat ourselves on the back for what we've done. Let's recognize that it's good, but whether it's the effort of the executive branch, or the legislative branch, it's more productive to see the challenges ahead. There are a lot of challenges."

Legislative negotiators reached a compromise with Gov. Brown on a school aid bill, but the agreement crumbled in the Assembly. Story on Page A-10.

Brown said that after he finishes with the budget—the proposed $11.57 billion spending plan for 1975-76—he must focus on appointments to the board that will oversee farm labor secret ballot elections this fall.

The farm labor compromise, the housing bill and collective bargaining for public employees have consumed much of Brown's time. The bargaining bill has stalled in the Legislature.

Brown also has said that a priority after the budget will be finding jobs for California's unemployed and welfare recipients.

The medical malpractice problem will take time, Brown said.

He called it a "field that generates a lot of emotion. The doctors are not ready yet for some of the bills that are required and the same is true for the lawyers. And the Legislature can only work with a problem when it's ripe for solution."

The Legislature was scheduled to start a month-long recess today, and Brown said that that time possibly "will focus attention" on the problem.

"Sooner or later," he said, "people will accept the sacrifices that are required to make some reform in malpractice."

Asked when he would name a director of the new housing agency, Brown said, "I'm going to get to farm labor first. I'm looking around."

"I've got to get to a few judges, too," he added, referring to the 75 vacancies which he can fill. He has not yet appointed a judge since taking office Jan. 5.

When will he name judges?

"Probably around the same time we—I don't know. Pretty soon," he said.

"I've got to get to the budget first."

Brown said the housing legislation is "by no means the total solution to a very difficult problem. It's a step in the right direction."

The Zenovich-Moscone-Chacon Housing and Home Finance Act provides $450 million in bonds to provide low-interest mortgage money for low and middle-income housing.

Ford asks sweeping car-smog rule delays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Friday recommended an even more sweeping delay in automobile exhaust clean up rules than the Environmental Protection Agency and his own administration had proposed just a few months ago.

Ford said Congress should freeze exhaust rules where they are right now through the 1981 model year to avoid inflationary increases in the costs of cars and to provide automobiles which will have a 40 per cent improvement in fuel economy within four years.

The EPA had earlier recommended keeping the rules at where they are right now through only 1979, with a slightly tougher standard for cars turned out in 1980 and 1981. And in January, Ford had recommended revisions of the Clean Air Act that did not even go that far.

The recommendation came despite a report from the National Academy of Sciences earlier this month which said industry could meet the timetable as it currently exists under the law.

The National Clean Air Coalition called Ford's move "a last ditch effort ... to permit the auto industry to keep on polluting."

Ford's recommendation would keep the standards for hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide at where they are through 1981. Hydrocarbons are the prime culprit in the development of photochemical smog while carbon monoxide is considered a health threat suffering lung disorders and heart problems.

But Ford said the administration had carefully reviewed the situation and it was impossible to tell what the adverse effects would be if stronger antipollution rules go into effect.

Among other things, scientists have said that one of the pollution control devices produces a sulfuric acid emission which could also be harmful.

"Most of the experts agree that tighter emission controls will limit the fuel economy potential of our cars, and all agree that they will increase costs to the consumer," Ford said.

The Clean Air Coalition said Ford's recommendation "fails to adequately protect against the 4,000 deaths and 4 million illness-restricted days which the National Academy of Sciences said were caused by auto-air pollution."

First Nixon testimony to remain secret

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON

Former President Richard M. Nixon has broken his long silence on Watergate. But his testimony will remain secret.

Nixon testified for 11 hours under oath before two grand jury members who flew to California to question him this week.

Nixon himself asked, in court papers released Friday, that the public be told that he testified.

Researchers at the Library of Congress said to their knowledge, it is the first time a former chief executive has given sworn testimony to a grand jury.

Legal observers said that President Ford's pardon of Nixon would appear to cover any crimes Nixon may have committed in connection with the matter that the grand jury is investigating. However, it would not cover any actions subsequent to his resignation, and thus any falsehoods under oath now would subject him to a possible perjury charge.

"Mr. Nixon was not under subpoena," said a statement by his lawyer, Herbert J. Miller. "His sworn testimony in California for the District of Columbia grand jury was voluntary ..."

"It was the former president's desire to cooperate with the office of the special (Watergate) prosecutor."

The two grand jury members were accompanied by Special Watergate Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth and some members of his staff. The chief judge of the U.S. District Court in San Diego, Edward J. Schwartz, drove 60 miles from San Diego to administer the witness oath to Nixon.

L.B. sues 8 major oil firms on charges of price-fixing

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Eight major oil companies were accused by the city of Long Beach and the State Lands Commission of price-fixing and breach of contract in connection with tideland oil production in a complaint filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

The complaint said damages suffered by the two plaintiffs are believed to be "substantially in excess of $100 million."

Defendants named in the suit are Standard Oil Co. of California, Texaco, Inc., Exxon Corp., Union Oil Co. of California, Mobil Oil Corp., Shell Oil Co., Atlantic Richfield Co. and THUMS Long Beach Co., the field contractor for exploration, development, production and distribution of crude oil in the Long Beach Unit of the East Wilmington Field, is wholly owned by Texaco, Exxon, Union, Mobil and Shell, the complaint said.

"We will pursue this diligently and with dispatch so the people of Long Beach and the State of California get their fair share of the oil revenue," said City Manager John R. Mansell.

City Atty. Leonard Putnam was authorized at a special City Council meeting Friday to take "appropriate legal action as deemed necessary." The council also authorized a contract with the Los Angeles law firm of Blecher, Collins & Hoecker to serve as special counsel.

The complaint contains three counts: one alleging violation of federal antitrust laws, one alleging violation of the state Business and Professions Code and one alleging breach of contracts.

Counts one and two of the complaint assert that the defendants have been engaged in "a combination and conspiracy, the purpose of which was and is to artificially fix and stabilize the prices for crude oil at unreasonably low and artificial levels and to restrain trade and

Southland eulogies to Busch

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

The sudden death Friday of Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch, Jr., 49, of a heart attack, shocked and saddened friends and foes alike.

Outpourings of praise for the hard-hitting, career prosecutor began pouring in immediately after news of his death at his West Covina home of what Coroner Thomas Noguchi called a coronary occlusion.

Busch, who became head of the world's largest district attorney's office in January, 1971, had taken Friday off in preparation for his son Steven's wedding. He apparently died in his sleep between 2-4 a.m. Friday and was found about 11 a.m. by his oldest son, Joseph Jr. The wedding, however, has been postponed, according to the family.

Funeral services are scheduled for 10 a.m., Tuesday, at St. Christopher's Catholic Church in West Covina with interment at Queen of Heaven cemetery in Rowland Heights. Rosary will be recited at the same church at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Busch's death brought to an end a career which began 23 years ago when he joined the district attorney's office in 1952 after graduating tops in his class at Loyola University Law School in 1951.

During the next two decades he prosecuted over 10,000 cases, many of which made Southland headlines.

Land, air search for FBI killers

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — The FBI brought in aircraft and two armored personnel carriers Friday to make a "systematic search" of the sprawling Pine Ridge Indian Reservation for suspects in the slaying of two FBI agents.

Authorities blocked the road leading to the ramshackle house where gunfire Thursday left the two agents and one Indian dead. Some 100 to 150 rifle-carrying FBI agents, plus another 20 to 40 Bureau of Indian Affairs officers, were searching the wooded hills near the house.

At press briefings in Pine Ridge, FBI spokesman Thomas Coll said the bureau brought in the armored personnel carriers, several National Guard jeeps, a helicopter and a light airplane to use in the search.

He said the armored vehicles were considered necessary "to protect agents in case they get caught in gunfire." No National Guardsmen were involved in the search, he added.

Coll would not elaborate on what he meant by a systematic search of the reservation. He did say the search was concentrated in the area where the shootings occurred, but said it wouldn't be limited to that vicinity.

In addition to searching the wooded area near the house, agents interviewed reservation residents in an effort to learn how many people had been in the house and who they were.

L.B. police tell kill-for-hire plot

Police investigators plan to seek a formal complaint from the district attorney's office against a 32-year-old Long Beach woman booked on charges of allegedly trying to hire an undercover state Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) officer to kill her husband, officers said Friday.

Homicide detective Sgt. D. C. Blachowski and R. E. Forbes said they arrested petite, red-haired Ruth Lee Jimerson, of 846 Daisy Ave., for suspicion of soliciting to commit murder and booked her into the Long Beach jail at 3 a.m. Friday.

The detectives said Mrs. Jimerson's arrest climaxed a three-day investigation by Long Beach police and ABC agents after she allegedly offered agent Dale Ferrante $5,000 to kill Kenneth Jimerson, 38, of 1225 Linden Ave.

Blachowski and Forbes said Ferrante told them

Mrs. Jimerson wanted her husband dead so she could collect a $20,000 life insurance policy and obtain permanent custody of the couple's two children. The officers said the Jimersons have been separated for about a year. Jimerson is employed as a security guard at Hughes Aircraft Co.

They said that Mrs. Jimerson, unaware that Forbes is an ABC agent, made the first offer in the Circus Room bar, 111

Long Beach Blvd., where she works as a barmaid. Other contacts were made between the undercover officer and the suspect in two other bars while the investigation was under way, according to the detectives.

"I just have a bad temper. I might sound off with anything when I get mad," the detectives said Mrs. Jimerson told them upon her arrest. She said she didn't really want her husband killed, they added. The detectives said Jimerson has taken custody of the two children, who were staying with a babysitter next door to Mrs. Jimerson's residence at the time of her arrest.

Trimmed housing bill sent to Ford

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — The Senate, just before beginning its Fourth of July recess, completed congressional action on a compromise limit on home buyers' fees Friday by approving a bill aimed at pumping up to $10 billion into the depressed housing market. By voice vote with just a handful of senators present, it approved the compromise measure and sent it to the White House before quitting work until July 7.

The House adjourned Thursday night until July 8. President Ford, who vetoed an earlier housing bill, is expected to sign the new measure, designed mainly to provide mortgage financing for thousands of moderate income home buyers.

Alcoa boosts prices 2.3%

PITTSBURGH — Defying Ford administration "jawboning," the nation's largest aluminum company, Alcoa, Friday hiked prices an average 2.3 per cent. Prices also were raised on tires and petroleum products. The rash of price increases comes less than a week after President Ford proudly noted that administration economic policies had cut inflation in half. The Aluminum Co. of America said the higher prices would be applied to 60 per cent of its products effective July 7. It could result in higher prices for many consumer products, including automobiles, houses and home appliances.

N.J. income tax defeated

TRENTON, N.J. — The New Jersey State Senate defeated a proposed state income tax Friday that Gov. Brendan Byrne had said was the only way to stave off immediate massive cuts in vital state and local programs. The measure was defeated on a 17-21 vote despite strong pressure by the Democratic governor on the heavily Democratic Senate. Twenty votes were needed for passage. Immediately after the vote, Byrne signed into law the state budget for the fiscal year that begins Tuesday with $384 million in cuts. The cuts would require the layoff of up to 20,000 state and local public employees, including policemen and school teachers. New Jersey, the only major northeast industrial state without an income tax, has a 13 per cent unemployment rate, among the highest in the nation.

Boycott fines

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department announced Friday it has levied $1,000 fines against four companies for failing to report requests to support the Arab boycott against Israel. The department identified the four as National Cash Register Co., AGIP USA, Inc., and INTER-Equipment Co., all of New York City, and Continental-Emsco Co. of Houston.

Legislator sentenced

ATLANTA, Ga. — Former state Sen. Leroy Johnson, the first black elected to the Georgia Legislature in 52 years, was given a one-year sentence in federal court Friday for filing false statements with the Internal Revenue Service. The 46-year-old attorney must spend 60 days of the sentence behind bars, and a U.S. District Court judge probated the rest of the sentence. Johnson was accused of under-reporting his income in 1969 and 1970 by $53,000.

INTERNATIONAL

U.S. offers new Korea troop role

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The United States and South Korea offered on Friday to replace the U.N. command in Korea with U.S. and South Korean officers by next Jan. 1, provided the Chinese and North Koreans agree that the 1953 armistice accord will continue in force. The object of the offer — made in a U.S. letter to the U.N. Security Council and in a South Korean Foreign Ministry statement — was to stop annual proposals by Communist and nonaligned nations that the General Assembly call for the dissolution of the command or the withdrawal of foreign troops in Korea under the U.N. flag.

Brazil nuclear treaty

BONN — The West German government, despite U.S. objections, signed a multibillion-dollar nuclear technology agreement Friday with Brazil, which pledged not to use the pact to build atomic explosive devices. The U.S. had pressed the West Germans for even tighter controls than the ones they succeeded in putting into the treaty, officials said. The agreement is expected to bring the West German nuclear power plant industry at least $4 billion in contracts for reactors, generators and a uranium enrichment system over the next 15 years. In return, the Germans will get a dependable source of raw uranium ore.

Strike paralyzes Argentina

BUENOS AIRES — Tens of thousands of Argentine workers ignored a plea by President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron Friday and began a paralyzing general strike to protest the government's economic policy. The seven-hour strike called by the General Labor Confederation, comprising 2.5 million union members, is the president's first major confrontation with organized labor since she took office on the death of her husband Juan Peron almost a year ago. At issue was a drastic government plan to rescue the country's faltering economy by allowing prices to rise by as much as 180 per cent while setting a 45 per cent ceiling on wage increases.

U.S. turns over property

VIENTIANE — The U.S. turned over control of all USAID properties in Laos to the Communist-controlled Laotian government because it was impossible to complete a formal accord by the June 30 deadline set by Vientiane authorities, officials said Friday. Negotiations between American and Laotian government officials on closing down the U.S. Agency for International Development operations had been at a standstill in recent days. USAID programs in Laos were phased out because of the demands of leftist students and workers in the wake of the Communist victories in Cambodia and Vietnam. The protesters charged the agency was an arm of the Central Intelligence Agency.

FBI seizes 2 in alleged Soviet spy ring

Combined News Services

The FBI arrested two alleged spies for the Soviet Union Friday and accused them of passing defense secrets to a Russian connection at the Soviet U.N. mission.

Just three weeks before the joint spaceflight symbolizing U.S.-Soviet détente, the FBI made its first attempt in two years to roll up a Soviet spy network by arresting these men at their homes in New York City and the Washington, D.C., suburb of Rockville, Md.

Sahag K. Dedeyan, 41, of Rockville, a scholarly naturalized U.S. citizen from Lebanon allegedly used by the Soviets as the "inside man." He is a professional defense expert with a top-secret clearance who worked on government-funded defense studies. He allegedly knew that a Russian agent photographed secret NATO contingency plans he had written and failed to report this to authorities.

Sarkis O. Paskalian, 36, a Manhattan jeweler, a permanent resident alien from Lebanon and the alleged "outside man." The FBI said Paskalian is a Soviet KGB intelligence agent who made the contact with Dedeyan, photographed the secret documents and gave them to Russian contacts at the U.N. mission in New York.

FBI spokesmen said they assumed the Dedeyan photographs of the Dedeyan document — "Vulnerability Analysis: U.S. reinforcement of NATO" — had actually gone to Moscow but conceded, "We have no proof."

The three alleged Soviet contact men were also named as unindicted co-conspirators, but all three have returned to Moscow. U.S. attorneys in Brooklyn, N.Y., charged Paskalian with conspiracy to gather classified national defense information to aid a foreign country. If convicted, he could face maximum penalties of life in prison or death.

ARRESTED on charges of spying for the Soviet Union, Sarkis O. Paskalian is taken out of FBI headquarters in New York Friday.

In Baltimore, U.S. attorneys charged Dedeyan with failing to report illegal photographing of national defense information. He was held on $20,000 bail. FBI spokesmen said agents had been watching the Paskalian ring for four years, but the timing of the arrests might prove an embarrassment to U.S.-Soviet plans promoting détente.

Serling

Rod Serling, the creator of the "Twilight Zone" television series, clung to life at Strong Memorial Hospital in Rochester, N.Y., Friday after complications arose during open-heart surgery.

Officials said Serling apparently suffered a heart attack during Thursday's 10-hour surgery intended to improve blood circulation to his heart. He remained in "guarded condition" and was receiving stimulants and mechanical support.

Serling, 50, was first hospitalized in early May after suffering what was then described as "a minor myocardial infarction." He re-entered the hospital with chest pains less than a month later.

Serling lives in Interlaken, N.Y., and is a visiting professor at Ithaca College.

Lion

Harry Aslan of Kingsburg, Calif., will become president of Lions International today at the organization's 58th annual convention in Dallas. About 32,000 members are expected to attend.

Aslan, a fruit grower, was elected third vice president several years ago. Lions International rules provide that elected officers automatically move up to second vice president and then to president.

Prohibition

The Prohibition Party selected a Baptist minister from China, Maine, as its 1976 presidential candidate Friday, ending its two-day national convention in Wheat Ridge, Colo.

Ben C. Bubar Jr., 58, "may cause some evil traffic to be detoured," a nominating speaker cried shortly before the 60 delegates paraded up and down the aisles of the Beth Eden Baptist Church, the convention center. The party's national executive secretary, Earl Dodge, 42, of Lakewood, Colo., was chosen as Bubar's running mate.

The national convention, first ever held west of the Mississippi River, was attended by about 100 delegates from 19 states, but only about 60 were still on hand to sing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and wave their signs after the candidates were selected. Most were in their 60s and 70s and had been party members all their lives. There were almost no young people in attendance as the 106-year-old party prepared to close its gathering.

Time off

Music flap

Olivia Newton-John, named female vocalist of 1974 by the Academy of Country Music, said Friday in Albany, N.Y., that jazz musician Stan Kenton's remark about country music being "a national disgrace" was "ridiculous."

"There's been a great upsurge in country music because it's very simple," she said. "I've noticed in the past six weeks that there have been as many country hits in the pop charts as pop songs."

In his remarks to a reporter for the Nashville Banner Thursday, Kenton said he hated country music. "It is ignorant music and perverted music. I abhor it," Kenton was quoted as saying.

General

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, has filed suit in Los Angeles against American Airlines for injuries he said he suffered in a fall getting off a plane in New York City.

Bradley, 82, said he fell last Jan. 13 and hit his head, suffering a deep cut, injuries to his arm and face, convulsions, anxiety and shock.

He asked for no specific amount of damages in the suit, but is seeking coverage of medical expenses.

Refresher course

I am a retired Navy chief who was married to my one and only wife for 35 years (since we were both 17). She died in November and for six months I was incapable of deciding what I should do. During the past month I have begun to date but I find the "dating game" very difficult. The women I have dated have lost interest in me after the second time out and since I am very inexperienced in courting, I don't know what I am doing wrong. Is there a charm school for men that teaches the art of wooing women? I don't want to wind up at 65 or 70 without a good woman. V.W., Long Beach.

We learned of three brief courses you might want to attend. The first two, according to the instructor, Emily Coleman, emphasize skills for "mating, dating and relating," and are being offered by Long Beach State University's Department of Continuing Education. They are, Making Friends with the Opposite Sex, billed as a social, encounter evening, will be held Oct. 24, and How To Be Happily Unmarried (in a society designed for couples), will be held in the evening Nov. 7 and all day Nov. 8. Fees are $6 and $20, respectively. Phone 498-4315 for further information. The third course, The Challenge of Being Single, offers a positive approach to being single and is set for Sept. 27 and 28 at the University of California at Irvine. The fee is $53. To enroll, phone (714) 833-5414. You may also consider attending some of the discussion groups and parties sponsored by the widows and widowers section of Parents Without Partners. We have mailed you a brochure outlining all the Long Beach PWP chapter activities for a month.

Back checks

I filed for unemployment benefits from Massachusetts last October and everything went well until my checks stopped coming in April. I've contacted the Massachusetts State Employment Service, and the local Employment Development Department has sent tracers for me, but I have received no reply nor any more checks. Can you help me? I'm low on funds. D.D., Long Beach.

You should be getting your checks soon. Your original claim has been exhausted and your first extension on it expired March 22, but you are eligible for two more extensions. The Interstate Claims Division of the Massachusetts State Employment Service should have mailed a card for you to fill out to verify that you are still unemployed, but they failed to do so because of a backlog of work, according to Doreen Bray, ombudsman for the employment service there. She is sending you the card special delivery and said she will expedite your back checks when you return it to her. She cautioned you not write Interstate Claims Division on the envelope when you send the card back because it will not reach her if you do.

Patent

I have an invention and I'd like to know how to go about getting it patented. F.A., Long Beach.

You first should prepare a signed and dated description of your invention and have two witnesses sign and date the document. A search then should be conducted to determine if there are any similar patented inventions. Most inventors hire a patent attorney to do this, but you can conduct the search yourself. The Los Angeles City Central Library, 630 W. Fifth St., in Downtown Los Angeles, has a nearly complete list of all patents issued in the United States. (Many public libraries also carry information booklets explaining patent application procedures.) Searches conducted by patent attorneys usually cost upwards of $200 and take about a month to complete. Approximately 70 per cent of patent searches result in the finding of a similar patented invention. If there is none, you or your attorney can prepare and submit an application to the Commissioner of Patents, Washington, D.C. 20231. Lawyers normally charge at least $500 for this step. Once the application has been filed, you are given a patent pending status, which protects your invention, and you then can try to market it. Before your invention can be fully patented, a government examiner must conduct a search for similar inventions. This step takes about one year from the time the application is submitted. A patent is good for 17 years and cannot be renewed. The complete process takes about two years and can cost upwards of $1,500 if an attorney is retained.

REACTION

Regarding your item on the 56-year-old widow who couldn't find a job and wasn't eligible for any aid but general relief, I think she should read the classified ads. I have been advertising for some time with little success for a home-oriented lady to live in my lovely home with me and be a companion and driver with little else to do but some light housework. I have offered room and board plus a salary. With this kind of opportunity available, I don't see why she or others like her have to go on welfare or live with their children. R.S., Long Beach.

LIFE TERM 'A DRAG,' SAY SLA KILLERS

By LINDA KRAMER

OAKLAND (AP) — Two defiant Symbionese Liberation Army members, sentenced Friday to life imprisonment for the assassination of a black educator, called the sentence "a drag" and one said, "It's a gas being called a terrorist."

They called the court a "circus," the sentence "no big thing" and said the terrorist SLA is "alive and kicking."

Superior Court Judge Elvin Sheehy passed sentence on Joseph Remiro, 28, and Russell Little, 25, for the Nov. 6, 1973, assassination of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster. They were convicted June 9 in Sacramento.

Remiro and Little must serve at least seven years before becoming eligible for parole. The sentence — described by Sheehy as "the term prescribed by law" — was the harshest possible because Foster was killed before the death penalty was reinstated in California.

"It's a gas being called a terrorist," said Remiro, smiling, sitting on a table with his back to the judge and addressing the court.

"I'm kind of proud of it. It's fun, you know."

He denied that the SLA had terrorized anyone other than "a whole bunch of judges and pigs."

Before they were sentenced, the two defendants, dressed in white overalls, addressed the courtroom of youthful spectators, many of whom applauded them.

"This is supposed to be a big deal," said Remiro, a Vietnam veteran and former auto mechanic. "But it's not really a big surprise ... it's a drag. This doesn't excite me. Revolution excites me."

Little, a graduate of the University of Florida, read from a prepared statement and said the SLA "is alive and kicking."

The judge denied motions for a new trial and ordered the two to Vacaville Medical Facility for observation before assignment to a prison.

They still face charges of attempted murder of a policeman, assault and possession of explosives in a shootout in Concord. Charges also are pending against them in an attempted escape last March 1 from the Alameda County jail.

Assemblyman freed

Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, leaves Sacramento County Jail early Friday after he was charged with drunken driving. Knox allegedly drove through two yellow blinking lights at more than 30 mph before he was pulled over. Knox said Friday afternoon that he will plead "no contest" to the charge if a blood alcohol test shows he was legally drunk. Knox was the fifth legislator arrested on such a charge in the last seven months. Unlike the previous six, Knox said the arresting officers were polite and he had no reason to feel he was singled out unfairly. Knox said it was the first time he has ever been arrested.

State Legislature OKs remodelin g of Capitol

Combined News Services

SACRAMENTO

A $43 million appropriation to remodel California's state Capitol building was sent to the governor's desk Friday after quick Senate and Assembly votes.

The final legislative action came without debate in the Assembly on a 69-0 rollcall about five hours after a final Senate vote on the bill by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-South Gate.

Gov. Brown has said he approves the plan to rebuild the 105-year-old, domed building so it will be earthquake-resistant.

The Senate vote was 28-3, with opponents objecting to a provision exempting the Capitol remodeling from a law requiring environmental impact reports on such projects.

In another action the Senate squashed legislation Friday that would have allowed voters to register up to 24 hours before an election.

The vote on the bill was 9-20.

The Senate did pass another bill authored by floor leader George Moscone, D-San Francisco. It provides up to $190 million in cost-of-living increase for aged, blind and disabled welfare recipients despite warnings it could raise taxes.

The bill was sent to the Assembly on a 28-4 vote.

The proposed state budget being reviewed by Brown already contains $65 million to bring the 6 per cent increase up to 9 per cent.

Supporters of the Moscone bill have said publicly that part of the strategy in its passage is to pressure Brown not to blue-pencil out any of the budgeted welfare increases.

A proposed constitutional amendment sought by Brown to make it easier for the Legislature to tax big businesses also was approved by the Senate Friday night without a vote to spare.

Sen. John Dunlap, D-

Napa, said his legislation, if endorsed by voters, could lead to "real tax reform" for Californians. The proposal would lower from a two-thirds margin to a simple majority the vote required in the Legislature to tax corporations, banks and insurance companies. A simple majority is what is required now to tax citizens, including the income tax, sales tax, cigarette tax and others.

IN THE Assembly legislation modifying the state's power to regulate the price of milk was narrowly approved 41-14.

Opponents quickly announced they would ask for reconsideration of the vote when the Legislature returns from a month-long vacation.

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-Upland, who authored the measure, said it could lower the price of milk by two cents a half gallon if it is enacted.

The Assembly also approved legislation forcing major petroleum companies to make available their oil pipelines to smaller independent drillers and imposing stiff fines for violations.

Pipeline owners would have to transport oil through their intrastate pipelines at a reasonable price. If the state Public Utilities Commission found that a company was refused the use of the pipelines at a reasonable cost, the fine could be equal to the price of the petroleum which was not transported.

$1 billion cost cut

Senate panel OKs national no-fault

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee approved a national no-fault automobile insurance bill Friday which, backers said, would cut drivers' insurance costs by $1 billion a year.

Under the bill, persons injured in auto accidents would automatically be compensated for their injuries by their own insurance policy. There would be no need to determine — sometimes through long and costly lawsuits — who was at fault before his insurance company paid damages.

Proponents said the threat of a filibuster exists, but they were more optimistic of enacting a bill this year than in 1972, when a comparable measure was killed by a 48-47 vote, or in 1974, when the Senate passed a bill 53-42 but the House failed to take it up.

Consumer groups have campaigned for such a law. The administration opposes it. Trial lawyers who, according to Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, collect $1.8 billion a year in fees in automobile injury litigation, oppose the measure.

The bill would lay down federal standards which state laws would have to meet within four years. If the states did not act, an alternative federal no-fault program would automatically go into effect.

Sixteen states now have no-fault laws.

Senate hikes aid to education

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 64-12 Friday to appropriate $1.53 billion more for federal aid to education than President Ford recommended in his budget.

"We are asking for a veto," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the only Democrat to vote against the bill. He said it was "not fiscally responsible."

The bill would appropriate $7.67 billion for secondary and higher education and a variety of other education programs in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

This is about $340 million over the amount approved by the House and $753 million more than last year's appropriation.

The bill now will go to conference with the House, after Congress returns from an Independence Day holiday, for adjustment of differences.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handled the bill, was joined by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., the ranking minority member, in expressing hope it would not be vetoed.

Prices received for farm goods up 2%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prices U.S. farmers received for their raw products during the month ending June 15 increased 2 per cent for the third consecutive monthly rise, the Agriculture Department reported Friday.

The index of farm prices compiled by the Crop Reporting Board was 10 per cent above the same point in 1974. However, prices farmers paid for commodities and services and other materials was 11 per cent above last year.

The board said that higher prices for cattle, potatoes, tomatoes, canteloupe and peaches contributed most to the increase since mid-May.

Partially offsetting those hikes were lower prices for wheat, barley and grapefruit, the board said.

By mid-April, farm prices had increased 4 per cent over the previous month and a month later went up by another 5 per cent, reaching for the first time in several months a level higher than the preceding year.

Prices that producers received for meat animals went up 4 per cent from mid-May to mid-June, with prices for beef cattle and hogs the main contributors while returns for sheep and lambs were slightly lower.

The prices for all beef cattle combined were $38.50 per 100 pounds, up $5.90 from June 1974. Steer prices were $3.30 higher than a year earlier.

Hog prices, at $47.30 per hundred pounds, were nearly double the $24.20 of a year ago.

Kennedy rips energy plan

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Congress opposes President Ford's energy program because it will take $25 billion out of the pockets of the hard-pressed American consumer, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Friday.

The President's oil tariff also will hurt the competitive position of American industry and make it hard for the United States to argue against further price hikes by petroleum-producing nations, he said.

"Congress has been unwilling to accept an energy policy based on increased prices," Kennedy told newsmen after a fund-raising speech for former Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah.

Offshore Alaska oil probes eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interior Department announced Friday it had readied an environmental impact statement on the possible exploration and development of 18.8 million acres in the Gulf of Alaska.

The outer continental shelf around the state of Alaska is about 840 million acres but only 1.8 million was singled out for possible lease for oil exploration.

All Navy F14 fighters grounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy grounded all 139 of its multimillion-dollar F14 fighter planes Friday because of suspected engine problems.

It was the second grounding of frontline Navy aircraft this week.

The Navy disclosed Thursday that its entire fleet of 680 F4 Phantom jet fighters had been grounded for safety inspections following a crash caused by a control failure.

Most of the F4s have cleared inspection and are free to fly again, the Navy said.

The grounding of the $18-million F14s, the Navy's newest combat aircraft, was ordered after an F14 made an emergency landing Tuesday at the Oceana Naval Air Station, Va.

The symptoms in that incident had certain similarities to earlier incidents experienced with the F14, a Navy announcement said.

Two F14s were lost in crashes in January, and the F14 fleet was grounded at that time.

Later that same month, an F14 flying from the aircraft carrier Enterprise in the Indian Ocean experienced engine flameouts but managed to return safely to the carrier.

All three January incidents involving the F14 were believed traceable to engine difficulties, Navy officials have said.

In announcing the new F14 grounding, the Navy said it would last "until the investigation of the recent incident (at Oceana) can be completed and fully assessed."

In event of emergency, the Navy said, the F14s would fly.

The two-man crew escaped harm in the emergency landing of the F14 at Oceana on Tuesday.

At the time, the Navy said a muffled explosion was heard, and fire erupted from the port engine right after the plane took off.

The Navy said 93 of the 433 F4s checked since they were grounded June 21 were found to be defective and in need of repair work.

The problem with the F4s centers in the tailflap section of the control system.

Ashland Oil admits payoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ashland Oil Inc. admitted Friday that it made payments to government officials in Libya, Gabon, the Dominican Republic and possibly Nigeria.

The Kentucky-based firm said some of the payments may have ended as illegal payoffs. It did not identify the recipients.

The payments are under investigation by the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations but the panel hasn't decided whether to ask company officials to testify, according to a source at the subcommittee.

The payments also are under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Internal Revenue Service.

Ashland's disclosures come after recent admissions that Gulf Oil Co., Northrop Corp. and United Brands Corp. made illegal bribes or political donations overseas.

Army will fight union confederacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major union representing government workers said Friday it is taking initial steps to unionize the armed forces.

"We'd fight it to the death," said a Pentagon spokesman. "There's no way you can have an army that way."

But President Clyde Webber of the 300,000-member American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO, said there is nothing in the law which prohibits members of the military from joining unions.

Webber said his lawyers are "reviewing the laws to determine how far we can go in the way of representation."

BETTY FRIEDAN IRES MINORITIES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Groups of Mexican-American and black women confronted U.S. feminist Betty Friedan Friday and accused her of being too authoritarian and making misleading statements about minorities.

About 10 Mexican-Americans, who said they preferred to be called Chicanas, cornered Ms. Friedan first outside a meeting hall of the International Women's Year conference. Later, 60 Mexican-American and black feminists met again with Ms. Friedan and said they did not want her to try and represent their views.

Ms. Friedan, who prefers the Ms. designation, told them she had not made remarks that were racist or exclusionary, and added: "I don't want to be divided from you. If you want to be divided from me, that's your right."

Some women attending the conference were circulating a petition claiming that Ms. Friedan was displaying excessive leadership.

Zo Ann V. Quintero and Bea Robinson, both Mexican-Americans from San Jose, Calif., said minorities were discriminated against by the women's movement and that Ms. Friedan was perpetuating this elitism.

Mallica Vajrathon said women are trained by their parents and molded by society to accept secondary support roles.

Women caucus told ERA top issue in '76

BOSTON (AP) — Rep. Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., told the National Women's Political Caucus Friday that politicians must be forced to accept passage of the Equal Rights Amendment as a major campaign issue next year.

"In the 1976 election, our greatest struggle will be for the Equal Rights Amendment," she said at the caucus' second annual convention. "The obvious question — support for that amendment — must be brought in a very direct way to all political candidates."

The proposed amendment was a frequent topic of discussion among the 2,000 delegates at the convention's opening session.

Ratification of the amendment by 38 state legislatures is needed by 1979 for it to become part of the Constitution. So far, 34 have accepted it.

People and Ideas

Women, God bless 'em!

By MARK CLUTTER
Religion Editor

"If the Lord Jesus Christ had wanted women to be ministers he would have had some women Apostles," snorted a churchly male chauvinist.

His remark shows ignorance of the time and place where Jesus lived. The Jewish society was completely patriarchal. The men conducted religion, politics and war. Women carried out the traditional chores of caring for children, keeping house and cooking. There was no way for a woman to be a preacher. If one had tried, she would have been laughed to scorn.

Oddly, in this rigidly divided society there was a large measure of friendship between men and women. Many women were Jesus' friends. They were his disciples, his students. But he never thought of sending them into highways and byways to preach. If he had, they wouldn't have gone. It would have been a violation of their role as women.

The Bible is a patriarchal book, and until recent centuries both Christianity and Judaism have been patriarchal religions. True, there have been heroines and female saints, but they won their glory in feminine ways. The only exception that comes to mind is Joan of Arc, who girded on a sword and led the troops. She has the distinction of being officially a saint and a witch.

CHURCH and world are no longer so patriarchal. Women are demanding and gaining entry into fields once considered man's work. But they have a long fight ahead of them before they attain equality in the ministry.

Women in almost all churches are demanding the right to be clergy. The battle is most bitter at the moment in the Episcopal Church. Episcopalians usually express themselves in dignified language and are willing to compromise, but this controversy has undertones of war.

The issue is greater than that of whether women should administer the Sacraments. The authority of the bishops and Canon Law is being challenged.

The structure of the Church is based on the Episcopacy — the direct succession of the bishops from the Apostles. The Church is governed by Canon Law which can be changed in conventions of clergy and laity. Under Canon Law, as it now stands, a woman can be ordained as a deacon, but not as a priest.

The light came into the open last year when four rebel bishops ordained 11 women deacons as priests. The House of Bishops immediately declared the ordinations invalid. But the women have continued to function as priests whenever they can.

CENTER of the conflict right now is the Rev. L. Peter Beebe, 30-year-old rector of Christ Church in Oberlin, Ohio. He repeatedly allowed two of the women to celebrate the Eucharist.

A court of five priests found him guilty, reprimanded him and asked Bishop John H. Burt to unfrock the priest if he did not desist.

Father Beebe has not desisted.

This puts the bishop on the spot. He is all out for women priests and has said that he will resign if the next general convention does not approve of the ordination of women. But he as chief pastor has the duty upholding the law. He has 30 days in which to comply with the court's order.

THE ODD thing about it is that a majority of bishops favor the idea of women priests. The opposition comes from others, mostly laity. The change almost passed at the last convention and is expected to pass at the next.

Much of the opposition is highly emotional — and much of it comes from women. To understand some of the feelings one would need to be a psychologist. There are women who are well educated and liberated, who hold good jobs and believe in equality, but who cannot accept the Bread and Wine from a sister in Christ.

What to them is a priest? A father? A lover? A man to tell them how to live? Whatever it is, it is deeply buried in the subconscious.

The cynical philosopher Nietzsche remarked: "Every woman needs a man. When she is young, a lover; when she is old, a priest."

A METHODIST remarked: "What's the problem? Do as we do. Ordain them and let them starve."

SOME denominations have no trouble over the rights of women. They are the ones who have no clergy. The Society of Friends has always treated women as equals. Many Quaker women have been outstanding in struggles for social justice through the centuries. Quaker churches do have ministers but they function as leaders and administrators. They perform no ceremonies. A man and woman wed each other by saying the appropriate words in the presence of the congregation.

INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM RELIGION

— but others are just living ordinary lives in an extraordinary way.

Wherever they go they leave a trail of sunny joy.

JOURNALISM OF RELIGION

The magazine, United Methodist Today, has been terminated because of rising costs and falling circulation.

Many religious periodicals have died and others are struggling along in abbreviated form. Anyone connected with publishing knows why. The costs of postage, paper and printing can become disastrously high.

But editors should be wary of blaming all their woes on inflation. There are other reasons for failure.

The remarks that follow have nothing to do with the Methodist magazine, which this critic has never read.

A magazine on religion must follow the practices of sound journalism.

It should be physically attractive. The type must be clear and readable. Titles or headlines must catch the eye. Pictures, if used, should be carefully chosen for their clarity and dramatic impact.

The magazine should not be dull to read. The writing should be clear, bright and intelligent. Once the reader has read the first paragraph he should feel impelled to finish the article.

A religion magazine is by its nature a special pleader. It presents the views of a certain church or group. It has a philosophical position. But it should not be too polemic. An appeal to reason is usually more effective than shouting.

It should not be trivial in content. Some magazines devote too much space to pious sweet-talk and restatements of platitudes. Most readers want their minds stretched by big ideas and issues. Some magazines underestimate both the education and the ability to think of its readers.

Many magazines neglect interview articles expressive of the ideas and personalities of church leaders — and sometimes laymen.

Such magazines come in all shapes and sizes. Some are intended for the intellectual clergy and laity; others seek general audiences. A few serve only small cliques. Some seem to be uncertain as to what readers they are seeking.

The best of these magazines will survive and grow stronger. But many are bound to fail because readers don't want to be bored or insulted.

LETTERS

Doomsday?

Religion Editor:

There is perhaps nothing so confusing and erroneous as the eschatology of the Jehovah's Witnesses. And for too long now those of us who adhere to the teachings of Christ have sat silently by while the disciples of the Watchtower and Bible Society have been shouting forth their false prophecies of doom.

The Jehovah's Witnesses have been setting dates for more than a century now. It was Pastor Russell, founder of the Watchtower, who presented to the world "evidence that 1874 A.D. was the exact date of ... our Lord's return" (Studies in the Scriptures, II, pg. 170). Within a generation, or 40 years (1914), there would be "the complete destruction of the powers that be" of this present evil world, political, financial, ecclesiastical" (Millennial Dawn, IV, pg. 622). In other words, "the full establishment of the kingdom of God, will be accomplished by the end of A.D. 1914" (Millennial Dawn, II pg. 99). Notice the "full" establishment! This date was then postponed to 1918 when God would "destroy the churches wholesale and the church members by millions ... the downfall of Christianity" (Millennial Dawn, VII, pg. 485). Embarrassingly enough for the Jehovah's Witnesses, such prophecy was never fulfilled, qualifying Russell as a false prophet. But this was not the end of their "fortune telling."

The year was 1966. Watchtower published another of their books to "help" their people understand God's truths. Its title — "Life Everlasting in Freedom of the Sons of God." On page 29, they declare what they now are trying to deny having said: according to their "trustworthy Bible chronology," "six thousand years from man's creation will end in 1975, and the seventh period of a thousand years of human history will begin in the fall of 1975 C.E. (A.D.)." Let me repeat that last clause: "the seventh period of a thousand years of human history will begin in the fall of 1975." What will take place during this 1,000 years beginning in the fall of 1975? On the very next page of this same book, it is stated that this will be the millennial reign of Christ, the sabbath rest for God's people. And according to another Watchtower publication, "This Means Everlasting Life," the battle of Armageddon (which they take to be a literal earthly battle) will precede the 1,000 year reign (pg. 272). That means we have got less than six months for a battle of Armageddon, and the beginning of Christ's reign over the kingdom!

It is our desire that those who consider themselves a witness of Jehovah God would be honest with themselves. When the fall of 1975 has come and gone without the battle and evidence of the 1,000 year reign beginning, we ask that you see the Watchtower and Bible Society for what it is — a human organization which for too long has been peddling false doctrines. Cease from your allegiance with such an organization and turn your face toward Christ and His Word. Again, do not forget the prophecy: "the seventh period of a thousand years of human history will begin in the fall of 1975."

Greek Shrine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Greek Orthodox Christians will mark the nation's bicentennial by establishing the first national memorial shrine of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America in St. Augustine, Fla., commemorating the arrival of the first Greek settlers in the new world in 1768.

National officers

DR. REED

Dr. Roy M. Reed, Bellflower, was elected president of the 800,000 member American Baptist Association at its annual national messenger meeting in St. Louis last week.

Dr. Reed is pastor of the First Missionary Baptist Church of Bellflower and president of the associated California Missionary Baptist Institute and Seminary.

Dr. I. K. Cross, Bell-

flower, who is also with the seminary, was elected vice president. He was public relations officer of the association for 22 years.

The association took firm stands against women in the ministry as being totally unbiblical. It repudiated the charismatic movement as being without scriptural warranty for our time.

The next meeting will be in Houston Texas.

'Charismatic event' to draw thousands

The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will open its 22nd world convention Monday in the Anaheim Convention Center. More than 10,000 delegates are expected for the six-day event.

"This is the charismatic event of the year," said Demos Shakarian, Downey, founder and president of the organization which has more than 1,100 chapters in 52 countries.

The program contains some distinguished speakers. Evangelists Oral Roberts, Kathryn Kuhlman and Rex Humbard will give key addresses. Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, Ore., will be the dinner speaker on Saturday night.

Other speakers will be Herb Ellingwood, assistant attorney general, California; Dr. Edward J. Eyring, pediatrician; Dr. James C. Johnson, former assistant secretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Roberts. Russell Kleinhans is president of the Long Beach chapter. Edward M. Tomkins heads the San Pedro chapter.

Pastor crusades for hunters' rights

RIDDER NEWS SERVICE
SAN JOSE — Anti-hunting forces are growing at an accelerating pace throughout the United States.

But a one-man counter-crusade is being conducted by a Lutheran pastor, Rev. Darrel D. Deul of San Jose, in behalf of hunters.

In a letter to numerous federal and California state officials, he writes:

"I am a Lutheran pastor who loves the good things God has created. I am especially concerned about people, of course, but it's my concern for both people and wildlife that prompts me to write to you.

"The current anti-hunting furor in some parts of our nation, while probably well-intentioned, is ill-informed and against the better life of people as well as wildlife.

"It is certainly no more wrong or sinful to kill a deer than a steer, nor is it worse to kill a wild duck than a chicken, or is it more civilized to eat pork rather than antelope.

"Therefore, anti-hunters are not only misinformed, but also completely inconsistent unless they are strict vegetarians who never wear leather shoes or belts.

"If they do live by the latter mentioned life style, that is their personal decision which should never be forced on any other people.

"In my profession as a Christian pastor, I visit many people and discuss many things with them. I often find myself discussing hunting and fishing.

"The majority I know share my concern as well as my opinion. That is, hunting should be continued as the same acceptable aspect of life it has since man was created.

"From Genesis 1:26 we know that God created man to have dominion over the fish, birds, cattle, and all the earth.

"That means we are to use them wisely for good. It certainly does not mean we should misuse them, so of course we need controlled hunting, because there will always be those who have little or no regard for either wildlife or people.

"As an avid hunter and outdoorsman myself, I have seen those who would destroy all they could, whether they were hunters, loggers, miners, fishermen, campers, developers, or whatever.

"It is those individual destroyers of our precious environment that we must try to stop.

"But that is certainly no reason to completely stop all hunting, logging, mining, camping, or any such practice just because there are some unfortunate occurrences within every activity, or because a number of people feel such activities are 'bad' or 'uncivilized.'

"Therefore, I strongly support the continuation of controlled hunting and good conservation practices. I stand in opposition to those who wish to stop all sport hunting, or who wish to stop certain aspects of it, such as duck hunting.

"I ask you to do all you can to insure that hunting is never banned from our great American heritage, either nationwide or in the state of California."

Pastor Deul has sent the letter to federal and state agencies charged with the management of fish and game, to Governor Brown of California and to many senators, congressmen and assemblers.

Woman OKd

The Reformed Church in America's only woman minister will retain her ordination, the General Synod ruled recently.

She is Ms. Joyce Stedje, pastor in Accord, N.Y. The Particular Synod of Michigan sought to have her ordination revoked. As in many other communications, women ministers are a hot issue in the Reformed Church.

Rev. David A. Laman, New Life Community Church, Artesia, was the synod delegate from this area.

Bible study

Ten weeks of intensive study of Bible and Christian leadership will begin Wednesday, 7 p.m., at the Trinity School of Ministries, 3655 Fernwood Ave., Lynwood. Two class period will be conducted each Wednesday with four courses of study offered.

The teachers will be Dr. Guy P. Duffield, Dick Handley, the Rev. Gary Curtis, Joyce Whitman and the Rev. George Johnson.

Zionist Threat

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hadassah, the women's Zionist health organization, has announced it is considering withdrawing its membership in the American Affiliate of the World Health Organization because of WHO's condemnation of Israel's medical treatment of Arabs living on the west bank.

Nippon festival

Seventy-five dancers, led by Kanyo Sanjo, professional dancer, will highlight the festival O'Bon, a time when souls of the departed are believed to return to their earthy dwellings, tonight and Sunday at the Long Beach Buddhist Church, 2360 Santa Fe Ave.

Hours of the festival are from 5 p.m. to midnight tonight and 3 to 10 p.m. on Sunday. The folk dancing performances will be at 8 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The festival also features floral arrangements, rice-pounding ceremony, calligraphy, paintings, other Japanese cultural exhibits. Japanese delicacies will be served. It is a community event open to the public.

Kanyo (Keiko Shibata in private life) graduated from LBCC as a nurse in 1967 and from Madame Kanya Sanjo VI dancing school. She teaches classical dancing. She is a third-generation Japanese-American.

Rabbi's Plea

SOUTHBRIDGE, Conn. (UPI) — Rabbi Alexander M. Schindler, president of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, has called on the American Jewish Community to stop making President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger "scapegoats" for Jewish frustrations about the future of Israel.

Missionary Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Seventh-day Adventist Church has announced it will seek federal help from the agency for international development in working out a plan to bring irrigation systems to the drought-stricken farmers of Chad in the Sahel region of Africa.

JOE BUSCH

Among these were the nation's first felony conviction of American Nazi Party members for assaulting persons attending a pro-Israel rally; the Sam Frank Locigno trial for the gangland killing of Jack (The Enforcer) Whelan; criminal libel charges against the men who attempted to smear former Sen. Thomas Kuchel, and five first-degree murder convictions of police killers, including the famous Powell-Smith case.

Although he insisted he was no politician, he won a hotly contested election in 1972 to the office to which he was first appointed a year earlier. That contest was against his deputy, Vincent Bugliosi, who made headlines as the Manson case prosecutor.

Busch succeeded Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger who won election to the state office. It was Younger who voiced many of the thoughts of the law enforcement fraternity.

"I am shocked and deeply saddened to learn of the death of my good friend and our great district attorney. He was responsible for establishing many programs that are now being adopted by other prosecuting agencies. He was not only an outstanding district attorney but a compassionate human being with a deep understanding of the serious problems affecting our society today. He held the respect and admiration of law enforcement people locally and throughout the nation. He will be sorely missed."

Busch, a ruddy-faced, burly man who was a former college athlete, had been through a complete physical checkup two weeks ago, had been ordered to go on a diet, spokesmen said.

As a grieving family prepared for a funeral in stead of a wedding, one of Busch's closest co-workers in law enforcement, Sheriff Peter Pitchess expressed his sorrow: "Not only have I lost an old and valued friend, but the citizens of this county have lost a vital member of the justice team that has been recognized worldwide."

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley, "shocked and saddened," said "he was a great public servant, one who believed fervently in the process of justice, one who looked out for the interests of the people."

Supervisor Pete Schabrum called Busch "an exceptional public servant," and Supervisor Ed Edelman admitted: "While in some instances I disagreed with his views regarding law enforcement, I nevertheless completely respected his conviction and sincerity."

In Long Beach, Acting Police Chief Ralph G. Kortz said: "His death at such an early age is a terrible shock. He was a strong advocate of law and order, and one of the people that helped Long Beach get a reputation for well prepared cases and a high conviction rate. I hope his influence will be felt in the office for a long time in the future and will be continued by whoever takes over the reins."

The man who became Busch's temporary successor, Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. John Howard, 50, was placed in charge of the office automatically on notice of his death. Supervisor Kenneth Hahn announced Howard's assumption of responsibilities Friday afternoon pending a decision by the Board of Supervisors on who will fill the job permanently.

The two men were fellow classmates at Loyola law school and had been friends since they attended Glendale High School together. They joined the district attorney's office in the same year and Howard was named Busch's top aide Jan. 4, 1971.

Howard said of his boss: "He died at the peak of a career dedicated to public service and the law. He was truly the people's lawyer and he was a loyal friend to the hundreds of people who make up the district attorney's office. Under him the Los Angeles district attorney's office became the finest prosecutor's office in the nation."

During Busch's tenure he established new divisions of consumer and environmental protection the office began prosecuting marijuana possession as a misdemeanor rather than a felony.

He established a pilot program in 1975 to measure the quality of justice throughout the county and make improvements. He cooperated with the Rand Corporation in its in-depth study of the criminal justice system in the county, a study which showed Long Beach tops in well prepared cases and conviction rates.

A native of Chicago, Busch moved to Glendale in 1937 where he attended high school and was elected student body president of Glendale Union High School. After graduation he joined the Navy and was discharged as a Lieutenant.

He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Texas in 1947, lettering in football and baseball.

Busch worked his way through night law school, working during the day as prop man at Paramount Pictures and as an insurance claims adjuster.

He married his school days sweetheart, Jennie Frances Rosario, in 1947, the year he started law school.

They have three sons. Joseph, Jr., 25, is a former All American swimmer at Claremont Men's College where he graduated summa cum laude. He now attending Boalt Hall School of Law at UC Berkeley.

Steve, 21, is a midshipman at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, and played varsity football while studying oceanography.

David, 18, is a student at Occidental College. He was student body president at Bishop Amat High School.

The family requested that in lieu of flowers donations be sent to the Los Angeles County Heart Association in Busch's name.

FBI chief to honor slain men

FBI Director Clarence Kelley will attend funeral services in Long Beach and Glendale for the two agents killed in Thursday's confrontation at a South Dakota Indian reservation, an FBI spokesman in Los Angeles said Friday.

Services for Special Agent Jack R. Coler are set for 2 p.m. Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Seventh Street at Atlantic Avenue.

Burial of the Long Beach State University graduate and former Los Angeles policeman will follow at Forest Lawn, Cypress.

Rosary for Special Agent Ronald A. Williams will be said at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Holy Family Roman Catholic Church in Glendale, and a mass will be celebrated in his memory at the same church at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

Burial is to be at Forest Lawn, Glendale.

Mr. Coler, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coler of Long Beach, was born 28 years ago in Bakersfield, and graduated from Wilson High School in Long Beach in 1964.

He was an officer assigned to the Los Angeles Police Department's 77th Street Division for three years, and joined the FBI in 1971. Mr. Coler was stationed at the bureau's Colorado Springs, Colo., office.

He is survived by his wife, Peggy; sons Ronald Lee, 4, and Paul Edward, 1; brother Steven, of Cypress and sisters Linda Miller, of Westminster and Susan Gregg, of Washington.

Mr. Williams is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, of Glendale.

Agreement on school-aid bill collapses

By BOB EGELKO

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislative negotiators reached a compromise with Gov. Brown on a school aid bill late Friday, but the agreement crumbled in the Assembly.

Assembly Republicans voted in caucus to unite against the compromise, and Democrats emerged from their caucus without the 54 votes needed to push the agreement through in the lower house.

One Democrat, Ken Meade of Berkeley, said the caucus majority had opposed the agreement to cut the school inflation relief bill from $115 million to $88 million and trim state support of local summer school programs.

The deadlock left the school inflation relief bill in limbo as legislators prepared to leave on a five-week vacation starting today. Republicans favored approving the entire bill and leaving it for Brown to sign or veto.

"If we approved the entire amount, I think we could override the governor's veto," said Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, who represented Assembly Republicans in a Senate-Assembly conference committee.

After meeting throughout the day with Brown, the conference committee agreed on the $27 million cut and to trim state support of summer school programs by 20 per cent in 1976-77.

It was the summer school limit, an 11th-hour demand by Brown, that aroused the most legislative opposition.

"Just pouring more money into the machine is not going to make these kids read better," Brown told reporters.

The bill's author, Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento, said Brown was trying to pressure schools into making reforms by withholding summer school money.

"HE WANTS to make some changes in education, but doesn't know what they are," Rodda said in an interview. "He just wants some leverage over the schools."

Rodda said a limit on state support for summer schools might increase property taxes in low-wealth school districts by as much as $60 million.

Republicans in the conference committee said they objected to the cut sought by Brown, which would reduce added state aid per student from $28 to $21.

"If we don't give the full $28, schools in my district will have to severely cut programs or they'll have to go back to properly taxpayers for an increase," said Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights.

He said he would prefer to place the entire $115-million bill by Rodda on Brown's desk and take his chances on overriding a veto.

Gunman kills self 7 L.B. children see mother slain

A Long Beach man shot and killed his girlfriend in front of her seven children Friday, then apparently killed himself in a fit of remorse, Long Beach police said.

Police said Iris Chomel James, 27, was dead at the scene when officers arrived at their home at 2674 Fashion Ave. about 1:30 p.m. Her boyfriend, Eddie Bernard Tate, 28, was pronounced dead on arrival minutes later at Pacific Hospital.

Both victims were shot once in the head with a .38-caliber revolver, Detective Robert Forbes said.

The dead woman's children told officers D.H. Vershaw and P.J. Perez the couple had been quarreling over use of their Cadillac when Tate pointed a gun at her and said, "I'm going to let you survive."

He then pulled the trigger, and, seeing that he had killed her, began sobbing and hugging her body, the children said.

The children, ranging in age from 5 to 12 years, ran from the house, heard a second shot, and ran to a neighbor, who called police.

Neighbors told police that Tate liked to play with guns, and Forbes said it wasn't known whether Tate intended to kill the woman.

Witnesses said the couple, who had lived together three years, quarreled Thursday night and Friday morning, but the arguments didn't seem violent.

The children were taken to the police department's juvenile bureau.

CHP copter crash kills 2

FREMONT (UPI) — A Highway Patrol traffic helicopter crashed and burned Friday killing two San Jose patrolmen, authorities said.

The pilot Frederick W. Enright, 30, and his fellow-traffic officer Adolfo M. Hernandez, 34, were patrolling in an area east of California 17 when their helicopter went into a steep dive. Witnesses said when the craft was 50 feet to 75 feet off the ground, it flipped over and crashed between two railroad tracks.

The two officers had not reported any troubles, the Highway Patrol said.

L.B. SUES OIL FIRMS

commerce and to monopolize the exploration, development, production, distribution and sale of crude oil" in violation of the federal Sherman Act.

The counts accuse the defendants of:

—Fixing and maintaining uniform and noncompetitive prices by posting in each oil field "agreed-upon" prices, which each defendant followed in purchases.

—Refusing to bid or pay for crude oil above the posted price.

—Fixing and maintaining uniform and noncompetitive prices for gasoline and other refined petroleum products at wholesale.

—Pooling their respective crude-oil transportation facilities; refusing by "economic discrimination" use of their pipelines serving fields distant from refineries to independent producers and owners of crude oil at such fields, thus making the independents to sell crude oil to the defendants "at prices and on terms fixed by them," or to pay transportation costs "much higher" than those paid by the defendants.

—Making reciprocal exchanges of crude oil among themselves.

—Refusing to sell crude oil to independent refiners or marketers.

—Limiting the supply of crude oil available to independent refiners or marketers.

—Making "joint, rigged and collusive" bids for purchase of crude oil.

—Entering into a series of joint-venture agreements to bid upon, purchase and develop crude oil and for transportation of crude oil.

—Taking steps to prevent independent refiners or marketers from securing tidelands crude oil through the competitive bidding process.

As a result of such actions, the complaint said, the City of Long Beach and the State Lands Commission have been unable to "fully issue and administer" the leases or contracts for exploration, development and production of crude oil in the tide and submerged lands, have sustained losses in revenue from such leases or contracts, and are "threatened with substantial and irreparable injury if the defendants' unlawful activities continue."

Count three refers to the City of Long Beach's contract of March 2, 1965, with THUMS Long Beach Co. It says this agreement, which never was terminated, gives Texaco, Exxon (which then was Humble Oil & Refining Co.), Union, Mobil and Shell "exclusive right" to conduct exploration, development and operation of the contract lands for oil and gas, and gave to all defendants—including Atlantic Richfield and Standard—"exclusive right" to take all the oil allocated among the defendants, which was 90 per cent of production.

In return for these rights, the complaint said, the defendants promised to pay a given percentage of their net profits to the city.

BEGINNING "at least as early as June 27, 1971," the defendants have been in "continuous breach of contract," the complaint asserts, "in that they have failed to credit their net profits account with the full value of oil allocated to them."

In particular, it states, they have acquired oil in the field from each other or other persons by exchange at a consideration per barrel higher than the valuation for such oil, calculated in accordance with the THUMS' contract.

The two plaintiffs asked for a jury trial, and asked the U. S. District Court to "adjudge and decree" the following:

—That the defendants combined and conspired to fix prices and to unreasonably restrain and monopolize trade and commerce in violation of the Sherman Act.

—That judgment be entered against the defendants for treble the amount of damages suffered by the plaintiffs, both as provided by the Clayton Act and the California Business and Professions Code, and that the plaintiffs be awarded attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.

—That judgment be entered against the defendants for the amount of damages suffered by the State Lands Commission as a result of the defendants' breaches of contract.

—That the defendants be permanently enjoined and restrained from each of the unlawful practices alleged in the complaint and that "appropriate equitable relief" be entered to dissipate the effects of the unlawful practices.

The complaint was filed by Blecher, Collins and Hoecker, Putnam and Robert C. Hight of the State Lands Commission. It was signed by Dep. City Atty. Kenneth K. Williams of Long Beach and by Gary W. Hoecker of the Los Angeles law firm.

FBI KILLERS HUNTED

One of the agents managed to get off a radio distress call before his death, and Bureau of Indian Affairs officers rushed to the house. But the 16 persons authorities said were in the house were able to flee, apparently through a ravine into the hills.

The reservation measures 3,150 square miles, mostly dusty prairie, and is bigger than the state of Delaware. Still, an FBI spokesman in Minneapolis, Minn., vowed: "We'll do whatever we feel is necessary to find the people responsible for these murders."

The old one-story house sits near a dirt road, 12 miles northwest of the village of Pine Ridge and three miles from the small village of Oglala. It is in a fairly remote settlement of six houses, separated from wooded hills by about a half-mile of grassland.

Brawls with teammates after 'loafing' charge

BURROUGHS COMES OUT SWINGING

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Slumping Texas Ranger superstar Jeff Burroughs, accused by an anonymous teammate of loafing in the outfield, exchanged punches in the clubhouse Friday with centerfielder Joe Lovitto, then got into an argument with Jim Fregosi that manager Billy Martin had to break up.

Burroughs, the Most Valuable Player in the American League in 1974, was later seen shaking hands with Lovitto, but called Fregosi "a backstabber."

Burroughs was criticized by an anonymous teammate in a Dallas newspaper following a game in Chicago. The teammate told the Dallas Times Herald that several balls fell safely that Burroughs should have caught.

Friday's outburst started when Burroughs, who had been benched by Martin for both games of Friday night's double-header with Minnesota, shouted in the Ranger locker room, "Did anyone really think I was loafing in Chicago? There are some backstabbers on this team and I think I know who they are."

Burroughs moved near Lovitto, of San Pedro, and said: "I think you might just be the one." Punches started flying.

However, none landed and teammates quickly separated the duo.

Lovitto and Burroughs exchanged apologies in the presence of two reporters. Fregosi then came into the locker room and Burroughs twice called him a "backstabber."

With that Fregosi walked over to Burroughs in a threatening manner and asked: "Would you say that one more time?"

BURROUGHS

Burroughs, former Long Beach Wilson High star, looked him in the eye and said: "You're the backstabber."

As the players moved towards each other Martin dashed from his office and separated the players. He ordered Fregosi to his office.

Burroughs, who had only five hits in his last 58 times at bat and is hitting .221, said, "I am not mad at James Walker (The Dallas Times Herald reporter who wrote the story). I'm mad at the people who told him."

"It was very unfair. I asked three or four people I respect if they thought I was loafing in Chicago and they said 'absolutely not.'"

He added: "It just infuriates me because it has shot my rapport with the fans (Ranger fans) to hell. I love to play baseball and I always try. The field was mushy in Chicago that day and you could hardly move."

Martin called a clubhouse meeting of the team and said that "I am telling them to quit knocking each other and get out on the field and play ball. I am not mad at Jeff. He is just disturbed and over-trying. I am going to give him two or three days of rest."

Burroughs, asked if he wanted to be traded, said: "I love the Texas Rangers, but I do not know why I have to be crucified. I am in a slump, but I am trying like hell."

"I am not the only player on this team in a slump."

Trevino, Heard hit by lightning

Injuries are not serious

OAK BROOK, Ill. — A violent thunderstorm, which sent Lee Trevino and Jerry Heard to the hospital after being hit by lightning, forced cancellation of Friday's second round of the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament. Their injuries do not appear to be serious.

Three other players, including Arnold Palmer, said the lightning bolts knocked clubs from their hands.

Bobby Nichols and Jim Ahern also were struck during the downpour, but Nichols was released after inspection at a hospital and Ahern refused to go to a hospital.

The entire second round was cancelled. The action washed out the scores of 75 players in the first half of the field, playing in 90 degree heat and humidity in the morning.

None of the afternoon field had played more than 15 holes when the thunderstorm struck and a siren sounded to suspend the play at 4:04 p.m. CDT. Trevino and Heard had hit their tee shots to the par-three 175-yard 13th green when they took refuge in a low place, under an umbrella, near the green.

"One person said the lightning struck the lake and came across behind them," said Ann Grassel, a 22-year-old who was working the 13th hole leader board. "I thought it struck on the green behind them. Trevino had a beautiful tee shot about one-foot away from the hole, and he was going for a birdie."

"They were sitting on the green with their shoes off when the lightning hit. Heard jumped right up, and Trevino shot up and rolled over and lay there," she said. "He had a welt on his shoulder and was in obvious pain. He was conscious and had a lot of discomfort. He thought his shoulder was broken."

Trevino's caddy, Ned Garmoe, 18, said Trevino and Heard were lying under the umbrella.

"Trevino said he felt like he was dying. His life was passing before him," Garmoe said.

Trevino and Heard were taken by ambulance to a hospital, where a spokesman said they suffered "minor burns." Both were kept overnight for observation, and a decision was to be made today on whether they could continue.

"They're in satisfactory condition," the spokesman said.

Jack Tuthill, tournament director for the PGA, said, "Lee was in the emergency room, but I could hear him talking. He sounded pretty good. Jerry was outside and he said he felt pretty good. Jerry said he had a burning sensation in the groin area."

Tuthill said that only once before, in a Buick Open at Flint, Mich., "sometime before 1964" was a tournament player struck by lightning. That time Mason Rudolph and Bob McAlister were hit with no ill effect, but a spectator was killed.

Palmer said he was in the middle of the 14th fairway, about to swing, "and the club left my hands and went flying back." He was not injured.

England's Tony Jacklin said he had just begun his swing and the club was knocked about 15 feet away. Third-year pro Jim Ahern said his putter was knocked from his hands as he leaned on it at the 16th green.

"I felt a shock throughout my body. I just ran for the clubhouse, thankful to be alive," Ahern said.

The complete second round of the tournament will be played today and the survivors after the cut, to the low 70s and ties or all within 10 shots of the leader, will play a 36-hole finale on Sunday.

Angel horror show has A's laughing, 12-4

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

In what truly must be described as a team effort, the Angels threw both bad pitching and bad fielding at the Oakland A's Friday night.

You don't do that against a three-time world championship outfit and expect to survive.

The Angels didn't.

Five pitchers paraded to the mound and coughed up 16 hits while the defense magnanimously contributed to the show of horrors with a club-record tying six errors. The A's said thank you and trotted off with a 12-4 triumph.

This was the sixth win in a row for the A's, who have also pocketed 16 of their last 20 and are on the threshold of making a mockery of the AL West, something they traditionally wait until late August or early September to accomplish.

For six innings it appeared Andy Hassler, trying to shake a six-game losing streak, had the A's rendered inept. When he fanned the side in the

By GORDON VERRELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Ten-days ago Cincinnati's ace lefthander, Dn Gullett, was rendered useless because of a broken bone in his pitching hand.

There was much head-shaking and glee in the camp of the defending National League champion Dodgers at the time because, certainly, this would be he spark that would carry them back to the front of the National League's Western Division.

But it's gone the other way.

Gullett hasn't thrown a ball but the Dodgers have thrown enough games to fall an alarming 5 1/2 games behind the Reds, their latest reversal an embarrassing 10-5 setback to the San Francisco Giants before 12,387 fans on an unusually pleasant evening at Candlestick Park.

The deficit is the biggest since Sept. 25, 1973 when they were six games out of first place. They've lost three games in a row, four out of their last five

Dodger of day
JOE FERGUSON homered and doubled in 10-5 loss to Giants.

and, at Candlestick, they've dropped two in succession after having won 10 in a row.

Even Burt Hooton has been caught up in the Dodgers' woes. Winner of six in a row at night, he's now dropped his last two under the lights. He didn't last three innings Friday night and in his last two starts has been battered for 12 runs (10 earned) in five-plus innings.

It's been a tough month of June for everyone on the team. The Dodgers led the division by 1 1/2 games on June 1 but have dropped a staggering seven games since then and are well on their way to their poorest June in their 17 summers in Southern California. Their record for the month stands at 12-14.

The Dodgers hit the ball well enough Friday, but not at the proper times.

In the seventh inning, for example, Lee Lacy's bases-empty home run with one out narrowed the Dodgers' deficit, 7-5. Then Jim Wynn and Steve Garvey followed with base hits.

Long Beach's Randy Moffitt then was summoned from the bullpen to face Ron Cey and Joe Ferguson.

Moffitt got Cey on a fly ball. Then Ferguson, who earlier had slugged his sixth homer, a two-run shot in the second, and doubled, struck out on a high fast ball.

Moffitt nailed eight of the last nine Dodgers to earn his fifth save. That's more than anyone on the Dodger staff has managed.

Moffitt's work was made considerably easier when the Giants, who had dropped four games in a row at San Diego prior to hosting the Dodgers, added a run off Al Downing in the seventh and two more off Charlie Hough in the eighth.

San Francisco had taken a 2-0 lead with two unearned runs in the first, the result of Hooton's error. He more than atoned for that when he blooped a two-run single to WIMBLEDON, England — Jimmy Connors and Bjorn Borg, young rivals for the Wimbledon tennis crown, raced into the quarterfinals on the dry and dusty grass courts of the All-England Club Friday.

Connors, 22, the defending champion from Belleville, Ill., destroyed Phil Dent of Australia, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Borg, the 19-year-old Swede, overcame Marty Riessen of Amelia Island, Fla., 6-2, 8-6, 4-6, 6-1.

Big-serving Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., also qualified for the quarterfinals, taming Mike Estep of Dallas, 9-8, 6-4, 6-2.

Connors finished off Dent in a little over an hour and has now played four matches without losing a set. In the second round, Vijay Amritraj of India forced him to a tie-breaker but otherwise it has been easy going.

"I think Dent was injured," Connors said. "I noticed him hobbling after the ball during the warm-up. He wasn't the Phil Dent who was within two points of beating me at Wimbledon last year and "If they're patting around here, Dick, turn it around."

It was Rudi, the quiet superstar, who helped turn things around Friday night. His run-scoring double capped the four-four outburst in the seventh and he came to bat twice in the ludicrous ninth when the A's paraded 12 men to the plate and he contributed a pair of singles, driving in three runs.

ANGEL ANGLES: Nolan Ryan wants to pitch in Sunday's series finale against Oakland. "That's what I told the manager," Ryan said Friday. "The leg doesn't feel any better but this sitting around is driving me crazy." Ryan is still in the possible rather than the probable category. There will definitely be a Ryan pitching tonight at the Big A. ## 'Iron Mike' rusty in public relations Mike Marshall, the Dodgers relief pitcher, is completing work toward a doctorate in physiological psychology at Michigan State University, where he also teaches a course in kinesiology during the off-season.

The foregoing is set forth so as to remove any suspicions that Marshall's mission in life is public relations.

Quoth Marshall the other day, "It's the players' business — not the public's. What the players do only on the field — not off the field — is all that should concern the public."

The immediate assumption is that the reporter was inserting his nostrils into the strictly personal affairs of Marshall and his family. Matters of the bank and boudoir, for instance.

Actually, Marshall had been asked about developments of a meeting between Marvin Miller of the players' association and members of the Dodgers. The newsman did not approach Marshall because of a reputation of amiable relations with the press but in his capacity of the Dodgers' player representative.

You now pause to consider Marshall's remark regarding the public. It should first be pointed out that an athlete's personal life should be entirely private and that it is the opinion here that such privacy is too often violated.

HOWEVER, IF A meeting of major league baseball players results in new demands for fringe benefits or whatever, and it develops that management must meet such demands, it bloody well becomes the immediate and vital concern of the public.

Obviously, the question that is placed on the table in front of the Mike Marshalls of professional athletics is as follows:

"Where the hell do you think the money comes from to pay for all of this?"

In the above mentioned area of public relations, the Dodgers — indeed all of baseball — have recently enjoyed a symphony of favorable lyrics for having held the price line despite an erratic national economy. You heard very few baseball owners lament this publicity as being none of the public's business since it did not involve actual activity on the greenward.

By the same token, if the developments of player meetings eventually result in a $2.50 seat suddenly costing $2.75, you concede nothing transpired on the field, but you suggest it is of some concern to the citizen asked to buy the ticket.

ASIDE FROM this sort of thing, you are somewhat confused about the full implications of Marshall's statement.

For instance, players regularly appear at such events as clinics and rap and autograph sessions. These are sponsored by a shopping center or department store and the players are well paid for their time.

Mind you, the players are not operating on the field but it is apparently the business of the public and the ball club often goes so far as to send out news releases on the affairs.

Furthermore, Mike Marshall should be advised that professional athletes make terrible errors in judgment from a standpoint of keeping personal matters private.

For instance, it is no longer a secret what brand of underarm deodorant Johnny Bench uses.

It is out in the open where Jerry West buys his automobile tires. There is no longer any mystery as to where Merlin Olsen gets his fat man's clothes and Don Sutton his thin man's clothes.

So help me, I can tell you the brand of pantyhose worn by Joe Namath.

Moreover, I can tell you the study of kinesiology at Michigan State has something to do with muscles.

The dean of public relations at Michigan State might also tell you it is possible for one to develop muscles between one's ears.

Wake Forest junior 'speeds' NCAA lead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jay Haas hurried his play Friday and the maneuver helped the Wake Forest junior seize the 54-hole lead at four-under-par 212 in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Championship.

Haas, low amateur in the U.S. Open for the last two years, fashioned a third-round 69, three-under-par on the difficult, heavily-roughed Ohio State Searlet course.

One shot behind entering today's final round were second-round leader Craig Carson of Ohio State, current National Amateur king Jerry Pate of Alabama and Oklahoma State's Tom Jones, at 213.

USC's Craig Stadler kept alive flickering title hopes with a 72. The 1973

National Amateur titleholder was alone at 218. Long Beach State's Tony Campeghe fired a 74 for a 225 total.

In the team race, Wake Forest doubled its lead with a four-man total of 872. Oklahoma State retained second with 878. Alabama, largely because of Pate, was third at 883, one shot ahead of fourth-place Brigham Young.

Southern California was fifth at 886, Ohio State sixth at 892, East Tennessee seventh at 894, Arizona State eighth at 895 and 1974 runnerup Florida ninth at 898.

who gave me a hard match in Australia. He was certainly off form.

"I hit the ball very well today. I wasn't bothered by being on an outside court though Nasty (Ilie Nastase of Romania) thought I ought to be on center court. I didn't hear or see anybody. I just played my match."

The tough ordeal of Wimbledon, with matches day after day, begins to tell on older players as the halfway stage is reached. Riessen, 33, made Borg play for every point at first but folded completely in the final set.

The American served four double faults in the match. One was on the last point of the first set and another was in the final game of the match when he was hanging on for his life.

Tanner's cannonball service carried him past Estep, and the worn patches on the grass helped him. In the tiebreaker that decided the first set, Tanner brought three aces and won 7-2.

The remaining five fourth-round matches are scheduled for today to complete the quarterfinals lineup.

Janet Newberry, a tall blonde from La Jolla, almost scored the first big upset in the women's singles. She led Virginia Wade, Britain's No. 1 player and the No. 6 seed, 5-1 in the final set but could get no further as Miss Wade, cheered on by an excited partisan crowd of 17,000 on the center court, came back to win, 6-2, 6-8, 6-6.

Chris Evert, the defending champion, and Billie Jean King, five-times champion, won matches that were too one-sided to be exciting.

Miss Evert, 20, the No. 1 seed from Fort Lauderdale, stroked her way past Kazuko Sawamatsu of Japan, 6-2, 6-2 and Ms. King, 27-year-old psychologist from Santa Monica.

CONNORS, ILIE VERBAL VOLLEY WIMBLEDON FAN

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors and Ilie Nastase were involved in rowdy scenes and heated exchanges during the men's second round doubles play at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships Friday.

The friends, seeded No. 2, were beaten by Dick Crealy of Australia and Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 9-8, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The disturbance erupted during the second set after a shot from Connors, of Belleville, Ill., had been called out of bounds. Nastase, the extroverted Romanian, argued that it was in.

The call occurred on the No. 1 court, where Nastase was knocked out of the men's singles by Sherwood Stewart of Baytown, Tex. on Thursday. There was a dispute over a line call on a vital point in that match, too.

When Connors' shot was called out, Nastase threw down his racquet and covered his face with his hands.

"Not again," he said. Then he shouted across the net to Pilic: "You are the one who knows."

Pilic said nothing, and the umpire told Nastase to continue playing.

The crowd chanted, "In, in, in." Suddenly a man in the crowd shouted at Nastase: "Get on with it. This is tennis, not a circus."

Nastase stared at him. "This is a disgrace," the man shouted. "You are nothing but a nuisance."

Nastase raised two fingers at the man. The spectator shook his fist.

Connors then strode across the court and shouted at the fan: "Don't get tough, my friend. No one speaks to my friend like that."

Then Connors added another remark, and the spectator returned it.

Six matches, featuring full contact, are scheduled. Each match consists of three two-minute rounds and the winner of each round receives five points while the loser is scored on a one-to-four point basis.

AAU 'un-cancels' meet with Russia

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The on-again, off-again track meet between the United States and Russian national teams scheduled for July 4-5 in Kiev is on again.

Pat Rico, head of the woman's AAU Track and Field Committee, made the announcement Friday at the senior women's national championships.

A squabble over television rights appeared to have doomed the meet. In fact, an official of the Soviet Track and Field Federation had said earlier Friday that the meet would not be held.

The State Department had intervened in the conflict, asking the AAU to reconsider its decision to cancel the meet. An official said that a cancellation this year could have jeopardized future meets between the countries.

Mrs. Rico, after consultation with Dr. Leroy Walker, chairman of the men's Track and Field Committee, and Ollian Cassell, AAU executive director, said that all problems had been ironed out.

With the restoration of the meet, the U.S. men's team has cancelled what was to have been a substitute meet in London on July 4 and the American women's squad has cancelled a similar meet in Oslo, Norway.

After the competition with the Russians, the United States' team will proceed to Prague, Czechoslovakia for a triangular meet against the Czechs and Poland, July 7-8.

Record 69 NFL owners vote cut nets Mann in player limit to 43

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League voted Friday for a player limit of 43 for the 1975 season, a reduction from last year's 47-man rosters.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced the decision at the conclusion of the owners' meetings and said that the league would advise its Management Council that "if any aspect requires bargaining, they would clear that aspect."

The league had a 40-man player limit and a seven-man taxi squad from 1964 until last season. When the NFL Players Association strike disrupted 1974 training camps, the active player limit was increased to 47.

Miss Mann, the 34-year old president of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, played a two-under-par 34 on the front nine and a two-under-35 on the back nine over the 6,265-yard St. George's Golf Club course to break Jocelyn Bourassa's record set in 1972.

Miss Mann passed up the $40,000 Hoosier Classic played last week in Plymouth, Ind., to rest.

"When I took the time off I was winning and I've come back to lead in the first round. I think the rest has done me some good."

"I worked my tail off on the course today. I was tired, but you can force strength to keep you going. I feel really good about it now."

Laura Baugh and Amy Alcott carded 74s.

Beiderbecke feted at jazz festival opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The 22nd annual Newport Jazz Festival got off to a nostalgic start Friday night with a retrospective concert of the music of cornetist Bix Beiderbecke in Carnegie Hall.

The opening concert featured members of the New York Jazz Repertory Company, a group which specializes in musical tributes to jazz greats.

The company, in its second year, is another ongoing jazz venture by impresario George Wein, the man who has run the Newport festival from its start. The festival is still called "Newport" even though it switched its location to New York four years ago. It runs through July 6.

The Beiderbecke concert, played before a full house of young and old jazz fans, was divided into two parts.

The first part featured the bouey, almost humorous music of an early Beiderbecke band called the Wolverines, with the reconstructed band featuring some original Wolverines.

The second part of the concert featured music from the Jean Goldkette band, in which Beiderbecke was a featured player.

The standout instrumentalist was an original Goldkette player by the name of Joe Venuti, a jazz violinist who brought down the house with his rousing solos. Some well-known tunes from that band's repertoire were played, including "I'm Going to Meet My Sweetie Now" and "Singing the Blues."

Another fine performance was turned in by pianist Marian McPartland, who played the Beiderbecke piano composition, "Candlelight."

This part of the session also featured Zoot Sims on sax, Bucky Pizzarelli on guitar and an up and coming cornetist, Warren Vache.

Leon "Bix" Beiderbecke's brief career (he died in New York in 1929 at age 28 of pneumonia and alcoholism) peaked as the Jazz Age was melding into the Great Depression.

Untimely death has made many an artist into a legend and Beiderbecke, recently the subject of two books, is no exception.

He was the first white jazzman whose work attracted much serious attention. At the height of its popularity, his band roamed the country in a Pullman car, stopping to play in hundreds of whistletop towns.

Beiderbecke was also a composer. The repertory played some of his compositions, including the "Davenport Blues" (written for his hometown of Davenport, Iowa) and "In the Mist."

Three veterans of the Beiderbecke band played in Friday's concert at Carnegie Hall: trombonist Bill Rank, 71; drummer Chauncey Morehouse, 73, and cornetist Jimmy McPartland, 68.

Tools, stereo gear stolen

Stereo equipment and tools valued at $368 were taken from a car belonging to Quinn Medina, 1600 Willow St., by burglars who pried a windowing, police reported Friday.

NBC revisits Watts a decade after the riot

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Has it been 10 years since the Watts riots jolted the nation? Yes, and the NBC television network will present an hour-long documentary Sunday night examining what changes, if any, the decade has brought to the predominantly black section of Los Angeles.

The special, "A Country Called Watts," will air from 10 to 11 p.m. Sunday on Channel 4.

NBC News correspondents Tom Pettit and Gail Christian will be the on-camera reporters, and they'll survey the condition and mood of Watts today through interviews with residents. Network publicists point out that the news documentary will be the first produced entirely on location using the minicam (portable electronic news cameras).

After the series of riots from Aug. 11-16, 1965, left 34 dead and property damage exceeding $40 million, many government programs to improve conditions in the ghetto were talked about — and some were introduced. But is life in Watts really much better today?

Sunday's special explores the question, and this is what Ms. Christian has to say:

"Back in 1965, there was hope and belief in the promises. But the promises are gone — and one of the shocking prospects is that we are accommodating ourselves to a permanent caste system, in which there will always be a certain number of poor unemployed.

ables, hidden away in some corner, like Watts.

"So we have come from violence and hope to peace and despair. And a growing sentiment in Watts: that the poverty funds were used primarily to pacify the masses, only while the crisis lasted."

RADIO DISC jockeys Dick Whittington, of KFI, and Charlie Tuna, of KKDJ, will cohost a six-hour Cystic Fibrosis TV Auction starting tonight at 12:30 on Channel 9 and continuing until 6:30 a.m.

Other DJs taking part in the telethon will be Jay Lawrence and Art Nelson of KLC, Johnny Magnus and Paul Compton of KRLA and Machine Gun Kelly and Billy Pearl of KHJ.

Up for bids in the auction will be celebrity donations, vacation trips, furniture, jewelry and dinners. Proceeds will go to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation to help children with serious and terminal diseases.

TONIGHT'S movie on NBC will be "I Want to Live!" starring Susan Hayward, rather than the originally announced "Goodbye Again," starring Ingrid Bergman. The latter film has been rescheduled for Aug. 2.

"I Want to Live!" which starts at 9 on Channel 4, is a 1958 film in black and white. It is based on the true story of Barbara Graham, who was executed for murder at San Quentin in 1955. Miss Hayward won an Oscar for her portrayal. An encore showing of the 1973 TV movie "The Glass Menagerie" will be offered at 9 tonight on Channel 7. The Tennessee Williams drama stars Katharine Hepburn, Sam Waterston, Michael Moriarty and Joanna Miles. Moriarty and Ms. Miles won Emmy Awards for their performances.

"SHOWOFFS," new ABC game show hosted by Bobby Van, joins Channel 7's daytime lineup Monday at 11 a.m. and will air each weekday. Guests on opening week will be Sally Struthers, Dick Gautier, Ron Masak and Joyce Bulifant.

Reruns of "The Brady Bunch," former prime-time ABC series, will start airing on Channel 7 at 10:30 a.m. Monday, and will continue each weekday through Aug. 29.

And, for next week only, ABC's "All My Children" drama serial will expand to an hour and will be on from 12:30 to 1:30.

IS SPORTS a way out of the ghetto? That is the topic of a half-hour special to be telecast on Channel 7 at 7 p.m. Sunday. Anthony Davis is host, and Coaches John Wooden and John McKay will be among those taking part.

DIAHANN CARROL GETS JOSEPHINE BAKER ROLE

Diahann Carroll will portray the late Josephine Baker in a two-hour dramatic special about the legendary singer-dancer to be filmed for future presentation on NBC.

The special, tentatively titled "The Josephine Baker Story," will focus on the life story of the girl from St. Louis who attained stardom in Paris as a young girl and who remained a headliner for 50 years until she died last April 12 at age 68.

The script is being written by the husband-and-wife team of Les and Tina Pine, television and motion picture writers whose credits include "Claudine," the motion picture which starred Carroll and James Earl Jones. Carroll received a Best Actress Academy Award nomination for her performance. The Pines also wrote the scripts for the films "Poppi" and the soon-to-be-released "Fred."

Novels filmed for TV

George Schaefer and Saul Jaffe have joined forces for the television production of three-time Pulitzer Prize-winning author Thornton Wilder's two most recent novels, "Theophilus North" and

"The Eighth Day."

Schaefer, who recently produced "In This House Brede" for GE Theatre on CBS, will produce and direct both adaptations. Jaffe will serve as executive producer.

Mini-Jimmie and his mini-cycle

By VINT MADER
Staff Writer

Seven-year-old Jimmie bit the dust hard off his mini-mini Indian the other day, but he remains the only member of the motorcycle-racing Henry family of Lakewood who hasn't been on crutches.

The only child of James D. and Melodee Henry, 5629 Montair Ave., he was simulating for an Independent, Press-Telegram photographer the motocross style that won him the California State Pee Wee Championship at Irwindale last weekend, when he had to pile off into the dirt of Cerritos Cycle Park as the powerful little cycle sped into a slackly strung chain link safety fence.

Mrs. Henry tossed her purse into the dust and cried out as she ran to where little James W. Henry II was lying near the battered machine.

The father also ran from his spot beside the earth mound from which his son had just sped at about 40 mph in the saddle of the souped-up Indian.

The worried parents shouted to him to lie still and Jimmie, though a top competitor in the National Mini Cycle Association, howled briefly like any shaken, dust-clogged chagrined small boy.

However, after the motorcycle-veteran father carefully removed his son's helmet, checked the flexing of his arms, shoulders, neck and boot-protected legs, Jimmie grimaced and helped retrieve the plastic windscreen and a few other attachments that the fencing had knocked off his one-cylinder, 61-cubic-centimeter bike that the Henrys said is now made in Italy although it bears the name Indian, a classic American motorcycle.

Family and dented bike then all reentered the Henrys' camper truck to return home from the dirt track.

In the family garage, the little Indian was set on a stand amid an array of large and small cycles and a work bench collection of engine and frame parts, and Jimmie's dad pointed out some flaws that had developed in the much-reworked bike as possible causes of the confrontation with the Cerritos track's fence.

He also pointed out a Suzuki, slightly larger than the Indian, that he is going to modify for Jimmie, who will be limited to Intermediate competition when he turns eight Aug. 14.

Jimmie, named after his paternal grandfather, who lives at 2143 E. 64th St., Long Beach, has ridden the Indian since he was a pre-kindergartner.

The parents pointed out on a garage shelf the machine's original standard wheels and tires.

Protruding beside them were two other pairs of momentos—the bottom ends of aluminum crutches father Henry used when he broke a leg in 1971 cycle competition and was out of biking for eight months and a set of wooden ones that supported Mrs. Henry for some time when she fell on a downhill "drop-off" in her first Powder Puff motocross venture in 1972.

She recalls that she pulled a series of ligaments and had to have cartilage surgically removed, "but I didn't break any bones."

To fall, recover and get back on track is part of the dedication of the Henry family and other cycle racers.

Jimmy, his father said, was well on his way to first place last March in the Pee Wee class of the World Mini Bike Grand Prix when the Indian and Jimmie parted company "and he stuffed his head right in the dirt."

Though that pileup cost him a championship in the biggest motocross event ever held in the U.S., Jimmie remounted and finished the race.

Among the scores of trophies displayed in Jimmie's room, including one for last Sunday's state championship, one of the largest is inscribed second place in the March 23 Indian Dunes world match.

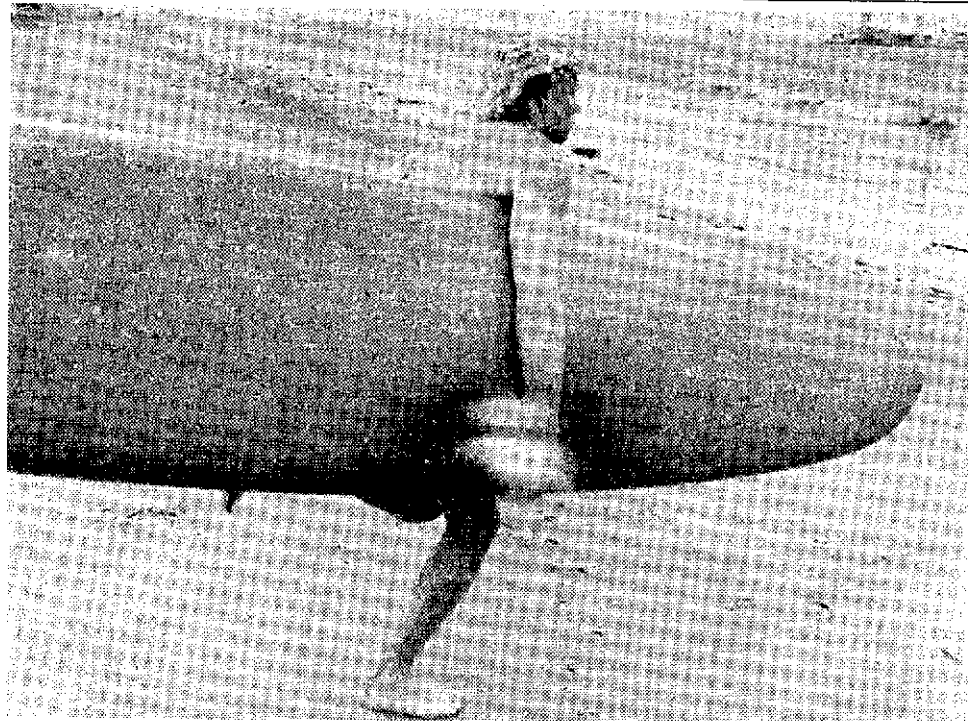

Stored crutches and all, both parents agree that track racing is safer than riding on public thoroughfares.

James D., a steamfitter-welder for Southern California Edison Co., started riding at age 15 and says that "after a few years I got smart and got off the public streets."

Mrs. Henry praises the motorcycle youth association for drilling her son well in the arts of self-protection, including driving skill and the need of safety garb so that "he won't even start the motor of his cycle without having a helmet on."

Long Beach lifeguard trainee Steve Hamlin, top photo, tunes up for summer strand duties as he heads out to sea—and rescue of fellow trainee Ron Brown, center photo—during final training session at Cherry Beach Friday. Above, Hamlin completes rescue as he paddles toward shore with Brown resting on board. The roles were later switched, with Hamlin acting as the victim and Brown doing the rescue chores. Officials of the Marine Safety Department, which employs about 130 lifeguards during the summer months, said Hamlin and Brown were part of a group of 15 cadets who completed a 56-hour training course Friday. The new beach watchers are to be assigned to duty on the strand beginning Sunday, according to training officers Sgt. Gary Horne and Ken Polhill.

Computers brought into fight for quieter jetliners

A soft-whirring computer is helping engineers at the Douglas Aircraft Co. in Long Beach develop techniques to muffle noise from huge jetliner engines, a spokesman for the company said Friday.

Robert E. Pendley, director of acoustics engineering for the Douglas division of the parent McDonnell Douglas Corp., said the computer-assisted noise study is designed to develop ways of making the giant aircraft quieter for passengers and residents near airports.

He said McDonnell Douglas engineers use the computer to analyze noise levels generated by the company's DC9 and DC10 airliners. Information gleaned from the study is to be applied to the design of transports now on the drawing boards, he added.

MODIFYING existing aircraft, however, may not be as simple as adding data to drawing board models.

"Every aircraft configuration must be certified by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA)," Pendley said. "The massive amounts of information we need for noise certification are collected by microphones and a laser tracking system, and then analyzed by our IBM computer."

Pendley added that FAA officials require a series of "flyovers"—test flights over a measured course at regulated altitudes and speeds—before certifying a design that changes an aircraft's sound characteristics.

During the maneuvers, batteries and microphones connected to recording equipment monitor the plane's noise levels, while the laser tracking system synchronizes the recordings with the plane's position, Pendley explained.

HE SAID more than 10,000 points of information then are compared to FAA standards by the company's IBM computer. It adjusts the information for any differences between the actual test altitude and the reference altitude as well as weather factors that affect noise, such as temperature and humidity.

"Before the FAA regulations were passed in early 1969, there were no standard noise controls, and many airports had their own limitations," Pendley said. "Back then we measured noise with hand-held meters."

"Now we analyze many different factors of noise, such as high and low-frequency tones; noise during takeoff and landing and also alongside a flight path; the duration of the noise, its level, its annoyance factor, and how it is affected by weather conditions, power setting, airspeed and altitude," Pendley explained.

"It would be an impossible task without the computer," he added.

Pendley said the three-engine DC10 became the first new transport to achieve certification under the FAA noise control regulations when it was certified in 1971.

He said a combination of new technology in basic engine design and the development of effective sound-absorbing materials for use in engine nacelles make the plane much quieter than federal standards require. The DC10 received the first environmental award given by the German Airports Association, Pendley said.

Although the original FAA ruling affected only new types of aircraft, a 1973 dictum required all newly manufactured planes, even of older design, to comply with noise regulations, the engineer said.

He added that the company's twin-jet DC9s which have come off the Long Beach plant's production line since December 1973 have engine nacelles lined with sound-absorbing materials to meet FAA standards.

Once certification tests are completed, Douglas uses its computer to analyze the flyover information concerning noise factors arising from the engine burner, the fans, the turbines and the exhaust jets, Pendley said. He said company engineers use the data to verify that each separate noise control measure has worked satisfactorily.

Pendley said the DC9s and DC10 jumbo jets are flown by 101 operators in countries throughout the world. More than 770 DC9s and 195 DC10s have been delivered to date, the engineer said.

$1.2 million bank theft awards fixed

Awards totaling $1.2 million were handed down Friday in the Santa Ana Superior Court for 36 persons who lost cash and other valuables when burglars looted a United California Bank branch at Laguna Niguel in March 1972.

The jury of 10 women and two men ordered the reimbursement divided $910,000 for actual loss and $300,000 for salving the "mental distress" of the depositors whose valuables were in safe-deposit boxes.

The burglars bypassed an alarm system, cut their way through the roof of the bank building and leisurely looted it the week end of March 22, 1972.

Claims against the bank mounted to more than $3 million before the bank officials decided to disallow them all.

The result was a damage action for more than $3 million, which also asked punitive awards the jurors refused to allow.

In deciding, the jury accepted the claim of the plaintiffs that the bank's alarm system was substandard and that bank officials knew it, but did not strengthen the security at the Monarch Bay Plaza branch.

Jurors said they based their award on alleged negligence of the bank, breach of faith by denying responsibility for safekeeping of valuables, and bad faith.

The awards to the 36 individuals were based on their proven claims. The largest amount went to William Eberhardt, who won $144,169. They scaled down to a low of $1,362.50.

Most of the patrons of the bank claimed that their losses were higher than those set out on court pleadings, but they could not prove some claims.

Authorities recovered most of the loot seized by the burglars, and they arrested four men for the crime. All were convicted and are in prisons. Their caper was Orange County's biggest bank robbery.

What the! Cranston due to address Lincoln Club

As a happening, it's not quite in a class with the lions sitting down with the lambs, but Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston, who is classed as a liberal, will lunch with the Orange County Lincoln Club, comprised of dyed-in-the-wool conservatives of the Republican persuasion.

The event will be Wednesday at the Marriott Hotel in Newport Beach.

And, Lincoln Club treasurer

Robert Beaver admits, it will be an event. It is the first time a Democrat has ever been honored by the Republican group known for its fund-raising for and ties to the nation's top Republicans.

"I imagine it will raise a few eyebrows," Beaver explained with a smile.

It all happened because Cranston's press aide, Lou Haas, decided to call the Republican camp and ask for an invitation.

Deputy passes test

Sheriff's deputy Therese Pincocchio, who is still attending the training academy, completed her training section on delivering babies in emergencies just in time.

While on routine patrol training Friday with Deputy Sandy Pollock, Deputy Pincocchio was dispatched to 12257 Rosecrans Ave., Norwalk, on a medical emergency.

Mrs. Ofelia Lopez, 22, was found in the hallway of her apartment building, about to give birth.

While Pollock stood by, Miss Pincocchio delivered an eight-pound girl, Mrs. Lopez' first child.

Both mother and child were reported doing fine when ambulance attendants arrived and are in Cerritos Gardens Hospital, Hawaiian Gardens.

Miss Pincocchio, 25, graduates from the academy in September.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for SUNDAY

Your birthday today: Despite changing external conditions, this is a year of relative quiet experience. You increase personal resources and become more highly skilled. Relationships develop as you become more introspective. Today's natives pursue several types of activity at once, are endowed with interesting personalities and sometimes known for eccentric views.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Look out for your own self-interests. Excursions, particularly with large groups or relatives, test your diplomatic skills. Add a new touch to your pet hobby.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Play no more than your usual role in local functions. Your budget won't sustain your efforts to match friends and rivals financially. Let them go ahead while you advance in another direction.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Talk with older people; gain from the expertise of those who are sophisticated. Avoid trading and financial commitments. Personal progress comes through meditation.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Stick with well-known, traditional methods wherever you can. Realize that new information is incomplete and perhaps based on wishful thinking. Get extra rest.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): It's time you took a good look at yourself and decided what you want to achieve by being a leader. You find wisdom and news in small talk.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do your regular share in community observances. Get in some moderate exercise and a tour of your neighborhood to see what's new. But don't prolong visits along the way.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): There's little point in bickering over trivial matters. Ask what the main issue is and deal with that instead of minor repercussions. Chronic conditions improve in small steps.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let others take the initiative. It's enough for you to pay your own way. Stay free to change courses if need be. Family ties are on the mend. Help out.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Local circumstances stir comment and cause you to be criticized from all sides. Check your recent financial moves; make adjustments.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's a good time for surveying existing situations and their causes. Hold your temper well enough to keep peace and give yourself a chance to see another's point of view.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Keep your eyes open for new ideas. Brief travel yields good results and inspires more optimistic thoughts. You have a lot to say in the right places.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): There's such a tight web of custom and routine established for Sunday in your locality that little change is probable. Attend to your own welfare and that of your loved ones.
